

ABSTRACT

The invention provides compositions comprising amino acid sequences that have cell killing activity, nucleic acid sequences encoding them, antibodies that specifically bind with them, and methods of using these compositions for increasing and/or reducing cell death, detecting cell death, diagnosing diseases associated with altered cell death, and methods for identifying test agents that alter cell death.